HISTORY SUMMARY:

As a young artist, I worked as a printmaker employing the silkscreen medium to create large images of the prairie landscape. I was also an art educator and taught for many years at both the high school and university level. Then, for two decades, I was passionately involved in theatre, and focused my artistic endeavours towards designing set, costumes and lighting for theatre productions. Currently, my main focus is on drawing and painting utilizing the human figure as the primary subject matter.
